

SAFAR

Promoters: Matondo Guevart, Zakaria Adhani, Driss Amkkour

Type of activity: education to multi-culture

SAFAR, meaning travel in Moroccan Arabic, is Solidarité Altruisme Fraternité Action Rencontre (from French: solidarity altruism brotherhood action meeting).

There are various meaning for word travel: touring, business trip, emigration, etc. For SAFAR members, travelling is a different way to live, it's a school that teaches you everyday, where you learn to adapt, to observe, to enjoy, to look at the world from another point of view.

AIN LEUH REGION

Ain Leuh is a village in the Middle Atlas, at 1500 mt of altitudes, with about 6000 inhabitants (10000 counting the all region); there is an high school and a college, in addition to a primary school.

The population is relatively young, and there is a strong human, economic and natural potential. The village is growing: 300 new apartments, a new village centre (pavements, gardens, a new taxi station out of the centre), a new policy for rural development, population increase (due to urbanization of both shepherds and semi-nomads Berbers). Even though all that, there is no organization in charge of young people!

There is a strong need for young people to be taken in consideration, to be listened to, to be able to put into action their initiatives. Moreover, knowledge of young French by young Moroccans and vice versa is very little, so the idea of travel as both educational instrument and local initiative booster was born.

OBJECTIVES AND PHILOSOPHY

promoting and implementing intercultural exchange and international solidarity projects for young people:
 accommodating both European groups in Morocco and Moroccan ones in French, for work camps in common (sport, environment, building, culture, art and craftsmanship, ..)

developing the potential of Ain Leuh region (natural, human, agricultural, craft, rural touristic) encouraging a sustainable development

creating in Ain Leuh an accommodation for both groups and independent travellers
(Chez Safar)

The principal aim is passing messages and values through out travel. Staying abroad young people can experiment citizenship and solidarity, by acknowledging and making the most of their activities. European young, being in a new environment, in Morocco ("reach" in human, natural and cultural terms), will be able to enhance his own opinions with other points of view. On the other side Moroccan young, guessed by his European colleague, can make his own opinion about life in Europe.

PROJECTS

Work camps of Fair Rugby

type of activity	education to multi-culture, sport
participants	French boys and Moroccan boys (with both French and Moroccan team managers)
age	between 13 and 17 years
where	Middle Atlas (Morocco) / France
when	July 2007 (Morocco) February 2008 (France) July 2008 (Morocco) February 2009 (France) July 2009 (Morocco)

In partnership with AJC (Animation Jeunesse du Carmausin) and CJM (Chantiers de Jeunesse Marocaines), in July 2007 SAFAR organized the first exchange between French and Moroccan young people: that exchange was based on introduction to rugby of the Moroccan boys by the French ones. The initiative was so succesfull that the French immediately started to prepare to welcome the Moroccans in France, at Carmaux, in February 2008. The project has then gone on with two new camps, in July 2008 at Ain Leuh and in February 2009 in France, involving other groups of French and Moroccan young people. Last camp was held in July 2009 in Morocco, with rugby rules for training and refereeing as main theme

Environmental work camps

type of activity	education to multi- culture, environment
participants	French boys and Moroccan boys (with both French and Moroccan team managers)
age	between 14 and 17 years
where	Ain-Leuh
when	July 2008 October 2009

In July 2008 the first international camp about environment was held, in collaboration between SAFAR and SAJ (Service Animation Jeunesse) of Marignier. That camp consisted in two main activities, reafforestation and rubbish recycling, based on a preceding idea exchange by internet, among French and Moroccans, about the issue of rubbish recycling (tires, scrap iron, wood, etc) and creation of interest for rubbish treatment.

In parallel to the camp, some events/activities have been implemented in order to promote exchange and mutual understanding between French and Moroccan cultures.

Next environmental work camp will be taken in October 2009, in collaboration between SAFAR and the French Association Via Brachy.

Social work camps

type of activity	education to international solidarity
where	Ain Leuh (Morocco)
when	October 2009

In partnership with the French Association Via Brachy and CJM (Chantiers de Jeunesse Marocaines), SAFAR is organizing two camps with social aims, in October 2009, on the following issues:

- teathre
- children rights

Chez Safar

type of activity	responsible tourism: accommodation
where	Ain Leuh
since	luglio 2008

Chez Safar is a Youth Hostel, where young Europeans involved in intercultural exchange and work camp are accommodated, reducing the general cost. In that way you can enlarge the potential basin, involving people from various social environment, so that a larger number of young people can live this experience.

Chez Safar consists of 2 dormitories, each one with 7 bunk beds (one for girls and the other for boys), a room with 3 beds for team managers, kitchen, toilette and showers, and a terrace. Restoration was completed in June 2008, and the first groups were accommodated in July 2008.

Besides Chez Safar is suitable to all responsible travellers, who wish for a close contact with local community in Ain; spending the night at Chez Safar, the traveller can support the project and the people in charge of meals, and he can all the info about guided excursions or trekking: one day or more, among cedar forests, lakes and waterfalls.

Projects impact

For young people: self reflection, others discovery, open-mindedness and spiritual enhance, adaptation to different environment, autonomy, responsibility, citizenship

Locally: youth development, meeting international solidarity, enhancing village solidarity; besides, in Morocco: actions for public utility, sustainable development, economic support, international exchange, in a country where mass tourism is growing more and more.

FUTURE PROSPECTS

In long term, if the balance of first years will be positive, it is forecasted a service centre: a travellers reception and orienteering (with constant presence of tour consultants giving advice and support about trekking itineraries, local guides and local associations/cooperatives to be visited), but also a platform for all associations of the area of Ain Leuh (even for consultancy for example for funds raising) and finally a permanent structure hosting young people.

A project, even more ambitious, is a French Department, in charge of both partners contacts and a Reception and Training Centre dedicated to people interested to work camps in Morocco with SAFAR. Among the issues of training: inter-culture, project management, team building, etc.
